The Song of Warmth

Many sisters, many laughs.

Music playing sweet sounds to calm the heart.

Dark rooms lit with warm lava lamps and phone screens to relax the mind.

Bonfires Dancing like us as we dance under the moon light.

Cooking and cleaning as one family.

Learning reasons from each other to be closer.

A family where love and kindful hearts are always welcome.

This poem was written by a foster youth on Kaua‘i. She wanted this to be shared with the foster care community in Hawai‘i. It is a beautiful reminder to Resource Caregivers, service providers, social workers, and all who work to support children in foster care of the heart of what we do. Children are always observing, learning, and loving.

Happy Holidays and Mahalo for all that you do.
Circles of Support

For teens, becoming an adult is exciting but also laced with pressure. Who am I? What career do I want? How am I going to make it on my own when I turn eighteen?

These questions put even more pressure on teens in foster care. Without a strong safety net, staying on track is like walking on a tightrope and missteps can quickly become disasters. If foster youth age out of the system without a safety net and plan for their future, drug use, unemployment, and unstable housing can easily become their reality.

EPIC ‘Ohana, Inc. offers a unique program that helps foster youth navigate the transition to adulthood. E Makua Ana Youth Circles is a youth driven process that empowers youth to clarify their goals and identify supportive people and resources. The “Circles,” as they’re called, are meetings that bring together people, who are important to the youth, to help the youth plan for his or her future.

The youth help to create the Circle from the very beginning. They choose who will attend, what food will be served, how they want the meeting to start, and how it will end. While there is a format that the EPIC facilitator follows, it is the youth who chooses a plan of action. The group is there to brainstorm, identify available resources, and lend a helping hand when they can.

We hear resource caregivers describe this as a positive process that helps the youth in their care to dream about possibilities and create a roadmap to attain that dream. They also like that youth can have multiple youth circles, called “re-circles”, helping to keep everyone on track.

Studies have shown that resiliency isn’t solely an innate capacity; it can be cultivated and enhanced by people and processes that are optimistic, strength-based, collaborative, and individualized. When Youth Circles and re-circles become a transitional tool for the youth over several years, the youth start to think differently – about themselves and their abilities, about how they want to make it in the world as an adult. The process helps them think about options and resources, and the actions they have to take in order to access that assistance. It helps them and their resource caregivers through the maze of information, deadlines, and commitments they must make which can have an impact and real consequences for their lives.

Below is a small sampling of participants’ feedback when asked what was most useful at a youth circle:

• “Discovering things about me that I didn’t even know about myself.” – youth

• “I loved the written plan for my foster son that came to us after the youth circle. It really helped guide us through his senior year, which is truly a stressful year in the life of any teenager and their caregiver.” — resource caregiver

• “Allowing youth to hear what people felt about her & also to have it reinforced to her that she has a good support system in place for success. It helped to hear about the different programs available to youth.” — supporter

• “The things I found most useful about the re-circle were talking about housing and financial aid/scholarships when moving to Oahu. And the way we were all comfortable with each other.” — youth

• “It really did help detail the plans of what youth wants to do in the future, which I believe really brought him closer to accomplishing his goals.” — youth’s sister

• “That everybody cared about what I had to say; they were there for me.” — youth

Youth Circles is a tool that encourages that resiliency. It’s available to all foster youth ages 14 through 26, for however many times they may need it. Transitioning into adulthood is rarely easy, but with enough support foster youth can make it and thrive. Be sure to use this amazing tool to help you with the foster youth in your home!

This year’s National Adoption Day was another huge success! The celebration took place on Sunday, November 19, 2017 at Ice Palace. Over 350 children and families shared that they had a ton of fun! Families were able to spend quality time together as they skated, caught up with friends and met new people as well. When asked, families were eager to share their stories on how adoption had changed their lives, and what a privilege it has been for them to provide a home full of love for a child/ren in need. I’d like to take this opportunity to introduce you to two such families:

The Schlupp family’s story is one that will melt your heart away. They believe that their two adopted children came into their life for a greater purpose, and that purpose was from God. The Schlupps feel blessed to have adopted a boy, age eleven, and his little sister, age nine. They also have a biological son who is now six years old, and gets along very well with his new older siblings. In case there was a question if these children were supposed to be with them, listen to these coincidences: The day the children came into the Schlupp’s family was Mrs. Schlupp and Mr. Schlupp’s mother’s birthday. The Schlupp’s eleven year old adopted son and their six-year-old biological son share the same birthday. It was meant to be! The Shlupp’s believe that anything is possible, and love that their children will grow up knowing God and that they are greatly loved.

Another amazing family is the Keola family. Their goal has always been to keep families together. Because of this value, they now have fifteen children in their home ranging from ages thirty four all the way down to two months old, many of which are siblings. As they shared their passion for family with me, Mrs. Keola said, with a huge smile on her face “and this just happened” as she gestured to all her Ohana.

Mahalo to the Schlupp and Keola families and all families who open their hearts and homes to children in foster care who need forever homes. We celebrate you!
Adoptive Families Needed Through Wendy’s Wonderful Kids

Jason is a 17 year old male of Hawaiian/Filipino ancestry who is currently in his sophomore year at Farrington High School. He has a strong sense of doing what is right, and is passionate about treating people with respect and looking at situations through a “glass half full” perspective. He is someone that is sought after by his friends for advice, and he has become quite comfortable with the role of being a problem solver. His dream job would be to become a Navy Seal, and it is his ultimate hope to be able to serve his country in this capacity. Jason spends most of his free time with his girlfriend and his girlfriend’s mom attending military concerts, going to movies, hanging out and just having fun with one another.

Jason continues to have a strong connection with his biological mother, and because of this his mother’s rights have not been terminated as of yet. Jason understands that his mom does not have the capacity to care for him in the way that he may need, but still believes she did the best with what she had. He often wrestles with his desire to have a family and feeling guilty for entertaining this thought. Maintaining Jason at Farrington High School is believed to be paramount to his success, as this is the place where he is currently excelling.

Wendy’s Wonderful Kids seeks to find good homes for great kids in tough situations. If you are interested in learning more about Jason and his need for permanent, nurturing connections, please contact Mindy Chung, Wendy’s Wonderful Kids Recruiter, at (808) 540-2552 or by email at mchung@familyprogramshawaii.org.

Reasonable and Prudent Parent Standard: Common Question

The following is an excerpt from the Don’t Say “NO” Until You “Know” guide, which was developed by the State of Hawai’i Department of Human Services, Child Welfare Services and our community partners. The guide presents common questions and answers for Resource Caregivers on providing normalcy for children/young people in foster care to participate equally in age or developmentally appropriate extracurricular, social, and cultural activities as their classmates and peers. These Q & A’s can be found within the Normalcy Guidelines provided by your DHS licensing worker.

Question: What liability does a Resource Caregiver and identified Child Caring Institution staff have in allowing a child/young person to participate in age-appropriate activities?

Answer: A Resource Caregiver and identified Child Caring Institution staff are not liable for harm caused to a child/young person who participates in an activity approved by the Resource Caregiver, provided that the caregiver has acted in accordance with the reasonable and prudent parent standard. Additionally, the caregiver is required to promote normalcy for the child/young person to the fullest extent possible and shall allow the child/young person to participate in age-appropriate activities at home, in school, and in the community (Preventing Sex Trafficking and Strengthening Families Act (P.L. 113-183/H.R. 4980 Section 111 Supporting Normalcy for Children in Foster Care).

Hawaii Revised Statutes (HRS) §346-17 Child placing organizations, child caring institutions, and resource family homes; authority over, investigation of, and standards for. “Qualified Immunity”-As defined in HRS 346-17 Any resource caregiver or child caring institution issued a certificate of approval pursuant to this section shall be immune from liability in a civil action to recover damages for injury, death, or loss to a person or property that results by authorizing a child in the caregiver’s or institution’s foster care to participate in an extracurricular, enrichment, cultural, or social activity; provided that the authorization is in accordance with the reasonable and prudent parent standard as defined in title 42 United States Code section 675 (10) (A).

There may be times when you, as a resource caregiver, have a question or concern and are not sure where to go for help. We will be presenting scenarios in each newsletter as a way to highlight different situations and suggestions on “Who Ya Gonna Call?”

It’s flu season in Hawai’i! Fall and Winter months are the most common outbreak months. If your child in placement becomes ill or gets injured, notify the Child’s Social Worker, contact his/her regular Doctor as needed and call 911 or head to the ER if needed.

What a joyous occasion it was to see over 1500 children and families gather together on December 3, 2017 for Family Programs Hawaii’s 19th Annual Holiday Party on Oahu! After 19 years of the community coming together to hold this festive event, the Annual Holiday Party has become a tradition for many resource families on Oahu. It is a time for the children to see their friends or siblings, for caregivers to network and see old friends and of course make new friends, and a time for families to take their yearly picture with Santa Claus.

Families were asked to share a memory or what they liked best about the Annual Holiday Party. Here is what some had to say about the event:

“During our daughter’s first time here, she met another girl sitting at our table. They connected instantly and she always looks forward to seeing her every year! Seeing their smiles and squeals of joy is worth so much.”

“We liked seeing the happiness on my kids faces and the joy they get to have when not feeling like a ‘foster child’.”

“This event helped us as a family to know that we weren’t alone. It helped us bond with other families with similar situations of raising and building confidence in our children whom we care for.”

This event would not be possible without the help of our generous donors and over 800 volunteers, for which we are so grateful. Also, we wish to say a special Mahalo Nui Loa and Happy Holidays to all the Resource Families who open their hearts and homes to care for Hawaii’s precious keiki.
